Fund Manager Comments

In tandem with emerging and frontier markets globally, Nigeria equity market kicked off 2016 on a negative note. Nigeria declined by 17% in January (and is down by 20% year-on-year in USD terms), leading the fund down by 14.4% for January. This trend has reversed since January as the reality dawns that cash dividend yields from blue-chip commercial banks are likely to be more than double domestic sovereign bond yields. Commodity markets (particularly oil) also started the year on the back foot.

In January, as part of our quarterly rebalancing strategy, we rebalanced the fund towards its model portfolio i.e. selling stock that outperformed the rest of the portfolio and conversely buying stock that underperformed. Over the month, we reduced our exposure to some consumer stocks (such as Nestle Nigeria), Dangote Cement and Flourmills of Nigeria (from which we totally exited). We reinvested the proceeds mainly in Nigeria Banks (such as Guaranty Trust Bank and Zenith Bank).
